HARRISBURG, January 18, 1876.

This has been a crowded city to-day—crowded with civil and military representatives from all quarters of the State. Every train that came into the city last night and this morning was packed full of people coming to town, and the capacity of the hotels has been taxed to the utmost. It is estimated that there were in town to-day fully ten thousand visitors, and I am satisfied this is rather under than over the mark. Everywhere there are evidences of the fact that this is a grand gala day in the town. The people seem to have outdone all previous efforts in the way of decorations and the display of bunting reminds one of the days when our boys in blue were welcomed home after the war. All the hotels and public buildings are almost literally covered with flags and streamers, while there are banners and mottoes to be seen on all the principal streets. Private houses also are very profusely decorated, and flags and streamers flutter everywhere. It has been the general remark, that irrespective of political faith, the people have manifested a desire to drop all political differences, and unite in efforts to give eclat to the inauguration of their Chief Executive.

The Bustle of Preparation for the day's ceremonies was heard on all hands this morning. The business, however, had been put into good hands, and consequently everything moved off harmoniously.

The Bolton house was the headquarters of General Osborne, Chief Marshall of the Military, and the Lochiel House the headquarters of Col. Jennings, who had charge of the civic part of the demonstration. These places were liberally decorated with bunting, streamers, banners, &c., and were surrounded in the earlier hours of the morning with the officials of the procession and others officially connected with the programme for the day.

The first feature of the day's demonstration was

THE GRAND PROCESSION.

Some idea of its magnitude may be had when it is stated that there were about 2,000 military to be arranged in line exclusive of the civic demonstration. The Route.

The procession moved over the prescribed route, which embraced some of the principal streets in the city. All along the line there were crowds of people who manifested their enthusiasm by the waving of handkerchiefs and flags and by frequent cheers. Some of the houses were decorated with the national colors, and the city wore a holiday appearance.

Allegheny County's Military.

The Allegheny county military made a splendid appearance and their marching was universally praised. The "State of Allegheny" was represented by the following: The Great Western Band, elegantly uniformed, headed the Fourteenth Regiment, consisting of nine companies averaging about forty men each, uniformed; Hutchinson Battery, Heath Zouaves, Allegheny Guards and Knap's Battery. The Eighteenth [Duquesne Greys] and Nineteenth Regiments comprised the rest of the Pittsburgh troops, numbering in all 800. General Jos. Brown had command. Knap's battery bore in the procession a battle flag, litterally torn in ribbons, a relic of many fierce encounters in which the organization had participated.

At the Grand Stand.

After passing over the route laid out the procession came to a halt at the grand stand, corner of State and Third streets. The military formed in line on the south side of State street, facing north. At the same time Colonel Jenning's column formed on the north side of State, facing south.

The grand stand was festooned with flags and banners, among which was one inscribed with the coat of arms of the State.

A vast concourse of people had gathered in front of the stand, and every available point in the vicinity was occupied by those who wished to get a bird's eye view of the stand and the Governor, even if they could not get within hearing distance.

A few minutes before the arrival of the Governor, Mr. Mitchell, Chairman of the House Committee, waited upon the Senators and notified them that the committee was in waiting to escort them to the place assigned them on the stand. The Senators immediately left the Senate Chamber in a body, and were escorted to the platform.

About one o'clock His Excellency, the Governor, appeared with his escort. He passed down through the lines of military on one side and the citizens on the other. As he moved along the soldiers saluted him, the citizens doffed their hats, the bands played, and the arsenal battery fired a salute. As the Governor stepped upon the platform Beck's band commenced playing "Hail to the Chief," and by the time the air was concluded, His Excellency was seated in the front of the stand in full view of the people.

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

When the music ceased, Senatar Davis, Speaker pro tem. of the Senate, introduced Rev. John R. Paxton, pastor of the Pine street Presbyterian Church, who offered up an impressive prayer.

The certificate of election was then read by Major Russell Errett, Clerk of the Senate, and the oath of office was administered by Judge Henderson. The Governor was introduced by Senator Davis, and his Excellency spoke as follows:

Three years ago, when the oath of office was administered to me as Executive, I took occasion to express the sense of my infinite obligations to the people of the State who had honored me with repeated proofs of their confidence and good opinion, and it would be unworthy affectation if I did not now renew my acknowledgments to the same generous constituency, who, after a three years' stewardship of the highest office in their gift, have called me again to assume its important duties.

The continued favor and inflexible support my conduct of public affairs has received from the citizens of the Commonwealth, bespeak from me in return, the utmost zeal and fidelity in their service, and my highest ambition will be reached if my administration will be remembered as an honorable one that studied and provided for their best interest. I still have as exalted an opinion of the great trust you have conferred upon me as when first confronted with its novel and grave responsibilities, and despite the experience had, am none the less distrustful of my abilities to meet its requirements, but whatever may be my other deficiencies, I do not know what it is to be wanting in attachment to my State, or affection for her people who have distinguished me with so many obliging and conspicuous marks of partiality.

I am not unmindful that the welfare and progress of a State depend less upon its government and rulers than upon the habits and circumstances of its citizens, and that no measures of administration can produce any substantial good unless they are dictated by public opinion or are begotten of the public necessities. A people must be ripe for reform or reform can work them no permanent benefit. Invention may exhaust itself in contrivances of public utility, and rulers may be never so wise in their devices, but if the dispositions and intelligence of a people are unprepared for the reception of remedies, they will not take root in their affections or affairs.

Imbued with these convictions, the maxims for the conduct of my administration were easily formed. It was only necessary to resolve that its acts should have no selfish taint, that they should be colored by no personal predilections or warped by any favorite theories, and that inspired neither by fear nor favor they should aim to reflect the people's will. With the lights with which Heaven has endowed me I have striven to adhere to these maxims, and if at any time I have failed to conform thereto it has not been from lack of patient investigation and honest exertion, or of a tender and jealous regard for the honor of the State, but from a misconception or misapprehension of the wishes or needs of her people. In the future then, as in the past, as the Executive of the Commonwealth, I can have no interest to serve that is not her interest, and can embrace no doctrine or embark in any cause that will not advance the material prosperity and promote the enlightenment of her citizens.

My opinions upon the question that effect the government of the State have been presented in my annual message and it is unnecessary to again refer to them.

When we look around us, gentlemen of the Legislature, how various, multiform and intricate are the interests of our great Commonwealth. Certainly it is a proud distinction to be chosen to administer the affairs of a State that has within her limits so many of the elements of empire, and it behooves us to see to it that neither its dignity or prosperity suffer through any default of ours. Let us remit no effort that will enlarge the happiness or benefits of her citizens; let us be distinguished by loyalty to her interests, by a jealous care of her institutions, a liberal understanding of and provision for her necessities, by humane attention to the wants of her poor and afflicted, and enlightened treatment of her criminal classes, and by a tolerance of opinion, political and religious, so that when we are discharged of our trusts we can deliver them to our successors with the approval of our consciences, and, let us hope, with the blessings of a grateful people.

With this renewal of my obligations as your Executive, I invite the earnest and active co-operation and counsel of all good citizens, and implore that my official acts may have the sanction of Divine Providence.

Review of the Military.

After the address had been concluded, the benediction was pronounced, and the inaugural ceremonies were over. As soon as the Governor could get clear of the crowd which surrounded him to extend congratulations, he proceeded with his escort to State street, where the military passed under review. This was one of the most interesting features of the day. After the review the troops were dismissed, and there was an interval in the programme which was taken advantage of by the people for refreshment and by the managers in making preparations for the finale in the evening.

Pyrotechnics.

In the evening the[illegible] technic displa[illegible] by Prof[illegible] Capitol and grounds with an exquisite beauty.

2. Flights of honorary and signal rockets, which towering to an immense attitude, into myriads of stars, serpents, descend in a gold and silver rain.

3. Star of the Centennial, a new and beautiful figure designed for this Centennial year.

4. The struggle for independence. In the curious combinations of this beautiful figure was repersented all the trying changes of that period, from the dark days of '76 to the final triumph of American Liberty.

5. A grand motto piece, decorated with every colored and brilliant fire known in pyrotechny.

6. The soldier's glory or badge of honor, commencing with changeable fires of crimson, purple and gold, suddenly mutating into the soldier's brilliant badge of honor.

7. A pyric bouquet, respectfully dedicated by the Committee on the Inauguration to the ladies (God bless them). It opened with a beautiful crimson damask rose, its petals sparkling with dewdrops of lustrous gold, suddenly unfolded into a boquet of Flora's choicest treasures.

8. The Bow of Iris—commencing with revolving fires of emeralds, crimson, purple and gold, wherein suddenly, in a perfect deluge of gold and silver appeared the beautiful Bow of Iris.

9. Grand finale and chef d'œuvre of the pyric art commenced with a spirited and life-like representation of a bombardment, with its rushing rockets and shrieking shells, when suddenly appeared in fires of dazzling brightness, Pennsylvania's coat of arms, inscribed in letters of silver fire, "Centennial Governor, John F. Hartranft," while high above all, 'midst blazing stars and bursting bombs, floated the Starry Banner, emblem of the brave and free of one united and happy country.

Homeward Bound.

The trains which left this evening bore many of the visitors on the homeward trip. Among those who started for home this evening at ten o'clock was the military delegation from Allegheny county. Our boys made a fine display and undoubtedly carried the bells.

A Success.

The Inauguration is conceded on all hands to have called out the most brilliant military and civic pageant ever witnessed here on such an occasion. The management deserve the compliments they are receiving on all hands. K.

The Situation in the Provinces.

LONDON, January 18.—The Times this morning publishes a letter from Vienna, giving the following account of the situation in the Turkish provinces: Partly from a sincere wish to end the insurrection, and partly from anxiety to escape intervention, the Sublime Porte is making great efforts to achieve pacification unaided. The new Turkish commander, Mukhtar Pasha, and the new Governor, Ali Pasha, are to co-operate to that end, the former by military dispositions and the latter by political and diplomatic activity. The severe checks the insurgents have recently suffered and the large reinforcements the Turks have lately received render offensive operations by the insurgents very improbable. Mukhtar Pasha seems likewise to have instructions not to operate against the insurgents, but to begin by the occupation of important positions and debouches of the Montenegrin country. Thereby a sort of truce will be drawn to prevent Montenegrins from assisting the insurgents and Turkish arms turned against those attempting to pass the frontier. So far as munitions of war and provisions are concerned such a disposition might answer, but it would be ineffective and against the passage of armed mutineers. The sort of truce thus established with the insurgents will be utilized by the Governors summoning an assembly of notables at Mostar to draft a report of the grievances of the country, to be sent direct to the Sultan. The Sultan will then consider all just complaints, and make special concessions to Herzegovina. While Herzegovina is within the vilayet of Bosnia no concessions will be possible without extending them to Bosnia also, which is scarcely practicable on account of the much larger population of Musselmans in Bosnia, who are already so excited and so fanatical that there is great danger of an outbreak leading to seriousness. In order to solve this difficulty, Herzegovina will be created an independent vilayet. The crcumstances of the two provinces are very different, the proportion of Mahommedans to Christians in Bosnia being as four to six, and in Herzegovina about as one to two. None of the powers will begrudge Turkey the merit of pacifying the insurgents unaided. On the contrary, all of them will be relieved from much inconvenience and anxiety only after previous fruitless efforts. It is doubtful whether this eleventh-hour one is likely to be much more successful.

FRANCE.

The Elections.

PARIS, January 18.—The Conservatives have elected a majority of the Senatorial delegates in the departments of Louvre, Maine et Loire Inferieure, Indse and Girande. Returns from forty departments show that the Conservatives have carried thirty and the Republicans four, while six are doubtful.

PARIS, January 18.—Sufficient returns have been received to show the result of the elections for Senatorial delegates in fifty Departments. Of these the Conservatives carried thirty-six, the opposition four, and ten are doubtful. The Conservative majority in Vosges is seventy-three, in Gironde fifty, and in Puny de Dome and Charente respectively the Conservatives have two-thirds majority. The Departments of Gersdeux Sevres, Haute Saone, Vaucleuse and Ardiche have also elected Conservative majorities.

The Moniteur states that pronounced Bonapartists only preponderate among the delegates selected in Corsica, Gero, Charentee, Dordogne, Basses Pyrenees and Pas de Calais. The Conservative majority comprises generally those who wish for the practical application of the new Constitution. The Bonapartist journals, however, claim numerous successes.

The Duke de Cazes will contest the election for Deputy in the eighth arrondissement of Paris. He has issued an address endorsing President MacMahon's manifesto. He says he desires only such modifications of the Constitution as sincere and patient trial may show to be necessary, and declares: "We shall pursue the work to which we are devoted, namely, the maintenance of the peace of France, daily encouraged by sentiments of the rest of Europe."

PARIS, January 18—Midnight.—Returns have been received from sixty departments. The Conservatives carried fifty, the opposition two, and eight are doubtful.

Banquet to Gambetta Prohibited.

General Lewal, acting commander at Marseilles, has prohibited the projected political banquet to Gambetta.

Some crowds assembled in the streets of Marseilles last night, but dispersed at the summons of the police. The troops were confined to their barracks. M. Gambetta had an interview with Gen. Levell to-day. The latter stated that he had acted on the orders of his commanding officer, Gen. Espivent, who is in Paris. The prohibition of the banquet was solely to prevent disturbance of the public tranquility. M. Gambetta afterwards left for Aix. The authorities there have received orders to prevent a meeting at which he intended to speak.

SPAIN.

The Political Campaign.

CARTAGENA, January 18.—The Intransigentes refuse to vote for the Casteiar candidate for the Cortes.

Romanist Electoral Agitation.

LONDON, January 19.—A Madrid correspondent says the Romanist electoral agitation is increasing, but the ministerial candidates are certain of a majority. The archbishops and bishops have signed a petition to the King in favor of religious unity. Pastorals have been issued by the bishops of Catalonia, Sargarossa and Burgos, advising the people to vote only for candidates who support religious unity. These acts of the clergy have created a marked sensation.

The Moody and Sankey Revival.

PHILADELPHIA, January 18.—The attendance at the noon prayer meeting to-day was very large. Several hundred requests for prayer were read. Mr. Moody spoke on "The Shepherd." Addresses were also made by Rev. G. D. Boardman and Dr. Hunson. Mr. Sankey sang "Ninety and nine" with so much feeling as to move the greater portion of the congregation to tears. At Moody's request a good many persons arose for prayer. Mr. Moody announced the death in England of Rev. Henry Varley, and prayed that this good man may be met in Heaven by many of those present here to-day.

On Monday night Senator Anderson introduced a bill providing for the punishment of persons who are found continually loitering about banks, brokers' offices, railroad depots, gambling and drinking saloons, steamboat landings, places of amusement and public thoroughfares in any city of second class. The bill empowers police officers and detectives to arrest such persons, and assesses the punishment for an infraction of the proposed law at a fine of $100, or three months' imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the Mayor, who is made the judicial officer by the act. The saving clause in the bill is that the persons arrested, under its provisions, must be shown to be persons who have no visible means of support.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, January 18, 1876.

Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company.

The Commissioners of the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company to day forwarded to the Senate a report of their operations since the assets of the company were transferred to them. The report shows that the balances still due on the loans amount to $1,960,872, exclusive of the accrued interest on unpaid loans and certain expenses connected with said loans, which, plus $157,744, balance to their credit in the United States Treasury constituted the remaining undistributed assets of the company.

Cutting Down Expenses.

The House Committee on Appropriations will probably decide to report in favor of a reduction of salaries of Consuls at least ten per cent. throughout the world, and will abolish at least thirty Consulates now receiving good salaries.

Credentials of the New Louisiana Senator.

The Proposed Investigation of the Treasury Department.

Address by Senator Boutwell in Its Defense.

The Centennial Appropriation Bill Discussed in the House.

WASHINGTON, January 18, 1876.

SENATE.

Indian Affairs.

The Chair laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, enclosing a report from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in answer to a resolution of the Senate of the 13th in regard to the books kept by Indian agents in compliance with section ten of the Indian appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1876. Ordered printed and lie on the table.

The New Louisiana Senator.

Mr. THURMAN presented the credentials of Jas. B. Eustis, claiming a seat as Senator from Louisiana, which he sent to the Clerk's desk and had read. The document consisted of long extracts of the proceedings of the Louisiana Legislature.

Before the reading was finished Mr. CONKLING inquired who certified to these papers.

Mr. THURMAN replied: The papers were voluminous, and it was not necessary to read them. They were certified to by the Speaker and Clerk of the Louisiana House of Representatives and the Senator who presided at the joint meeting.

Mr. CONKLING said the act of Congress stated that the credentials of one claiming a seat in this body must be certified by the Governor of the State. He argued that the papers just presented in the Senate did not present a prima facie case, and not being credentials authorized by the State, he submitted that they ought not to be read as such in the Senate.

Mr. MORTON said he was not in the Senate when the papers purporting to be the credentials of Eustis were read. He asked that the matter be laid over until to-morrow morning.

Mr. THURMAN said these papers showed the title of Eustis to a seat. He did not ask to have him sworn on them, but only asked to have his case referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. CONKLING argued that the papers were irregular, and were papers upon which the Senate could not act as constituting a prima facie case.

Mr. THURMAN denied that the papers were irregular, unless it was the absence of the Governor's certificate, and that he submitted was not an irregularity. The act of Congress had been strictly complied with in the election of Eustis. The papers showed that a majority of the aggregate number of members of the two Houses were present, and also that a majority of those members voted the whole question before the Senate would act as to whether or not a vacancy existed in the Louisiana Senatorship. If the Senate should decide that Pinchback was entitled to a seat, there would be an end to these papers; but, on the other hand, if the Senate should decide that Pinchback was not entitled to a seat, the claim of Eustis must be considered.

Mr. SHERMAN suggested that the papers be printed in the Record as if they had been read in the Senate, and the matter be laid over until to-morrow, so that the Senate could go on with the morning's business now.

This suggestion was agreed to, and it was ordered that the papers be printed in the Record and laid over until to-morrow.

Memorial from Louisiana Democrats.

The Chair laid before the Senate the memorial of the Democratic Conservative Convention of Louisiana, held on January 6th, 1876, concerning the election and condition of the State of Louisiana. Referred.

Bills Introduced and Referred.

By Mr. DORSEY, a bill appropriating money to erect a public building at Little Rock.

He also submitted a resolution instructing the Committee on Postoffices and Postroads to inquire and report whether the restoration of the franking privilege would increase the cost of the mail service, and to what extent, and if it is expedient to restore the same. Agreed to.

Mr. GOLDTHWAITE said he found in his desk pamphlets in the Spencer case. He felt some delicacy in presenting them to the Senate, as they were made up of newspaper testimony at the best. He asked, however, that they be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which committee had charge of the case of Spencer.

Mr. HARVEY introduced a bill to extend the provisions of the act to settle accounts between the United States and State of Mississippi, approved March 31, 1875, to other States. Mr. HARVEY explained that the object of the bill was to adjust claims of certain States in regard to their percentage on sales of public lands, &c.

Mr. EDMUNDS submitted a resolution requesting the President to communicate to the Senate his note in regard to public interest, copies of any correspondence had under his authority with other Governments in regard to the Centennial Exhibition. Agreed.

The Chair laid before the Senate the report from the Commissioners of the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company, in answer to a resolution calling for it. Ordered printed and lie on the table.

Mr. WINDOM presented various petitions asking an appropriation of $100,000 for the improvement of the Upper Mississippi river.

Witnesses Before Military Courts.

Mr. CRAGIN called up the Senate bill to secure the attendance and payment of witnesses before military courts, and submitted an amendment giving to every court martial the same power to punish witnesses for refusing to testify as that now held by Circuit Courts of the United States, providing that the action of such court martial shall be subject to revision on a writ of habeas corpus by any Circuit or District Court of the United States.

Mr. WHITE moved to amend the amendment so that no imprisonment imposed on civilians for contempt should continue for more than two months.

After some discussion he modified the amendment so as to provide that such imprisonment shall not be longer than that imposed on a soldier or sailor for a similar offense.

The amendment of Mr. Cragin as amended by Mr. White was agreed to and the bill as amended passed.

The Treasury Department.

The morning hour having expired, the Senate resumed consideration of the resolution submitted by Mr. Davis on Wednesday to appoint a special committee to investigate the books and accounts of the Treasury Department.

Mr. BOUTWELL said when he addressed the Senate on Thursday last he stated the general principles by which he supposed a full explanation to the argument of the Senator from West Virginia (Davis) could be given. He (Boutwell) had no disposition to oppose the examination called for by Mr. Davis. He was in favor of such examination by a special committee, or one of the standing committees of the Senate. There was not the least foundation for the suggestion that the books of the Department had been changed, and if the Honorable Senator had taken pains to examine the process of keeping accounts in the department he would have seen that it would have been so difficult to change the records after they had been made that it might be said to have been an impossibility. He (Boutwell) found that the details in figures were so voluminous that it would not be expedient to publish them to the extent required, and they would furnish, upon the whole, very little of the information demanded. He would, therefore, confine himself to general statements, and leave the committee to explore the details. The first definite statement made by the Senator from West Virginia (Davis) was relative to the amount of expenditures. The entire amount of differences which the gentleman stated showed an increase in expenditures from 1861 to 1866 of $3,271,970, and may be summarized thus: In the finance report of 1869 are included outstanding warrants to the amount of $4,018,091, which do not appear in the report for 1870. In the report for 1870 are included trust funds to the amount of $1,210,062, which do not appear in the report for 1869. The difference between the two, $3,271,970, is the exact difference claimed to be an increase of expenditures, as shown by the statement. This, it will be perceived, is merely a difference in the manner of preparing the statements.

Mr. BOUTWELL quoted from the speech of Mr. Davis, and said in the finance report of 1869 there was included an item for the purchase of gold coin authorized by the first section of the act of March 17, 1872, amounting to $5,072,900. Under the same head there was also the payment of $735,416 of outstanding warrants which belong to previous years, these two items amounting to $5,808,304. In the report for 1870 the items of trust funds, namely: Chickasaw, Choctaw and Navy Pension fund, amounting to $7,242,242, are included under the head of "net ordinary expenditures," and the difference between these two amounts represented the discrepancies referred to. He then explained payments on account of pensions, and said the increase shown in the report of 1874 as compared with that of 1870 was caused by the payment of warrants in 1874 which had been issued in prior years.

In regard to the internal revenue discrepancies in the year 1863, he said that year the internal revenue was paid into the Treasury, and appears in the receipts and expenditures. A clerk, in tabulating the statement, inadvertently added the receipts from internal revenue to the public debt. This mistake was afterward discovered and corrected.

Mr. BOUTWELL then spoke of the manner in which accounts were kept by the Register of the Treasury, and read from the report of the Secretary of the Treasury the following note in regard to the public debt: It will be seen that the increase of the principal of the public debt, as shown by this statement, appears to be $17,207,475. Congress, by the act of June 8, 1872, provided that national banking associations might deposit United States legal tender notes in the Treasury of the United States and receive therefor certificates of deposit bearing no interest, and that the notes so deposited should be set apart and held as a special deposit for the redemption of said certificates. The certificates outstanding on the 1st of July, and included in the outstanding principal of the debt, amounted to $58,760,000, and the notes held as a special deposit for their redemption were included in the cash balance in the Treasury on that day. It will be seen, therefore, that while these certificates, as a matter of accounts, are treated as part of the public debt, they do not in reality form any portion of it in the usual sense of the word, for the reason that no revenue is required to be provided for their payment, the notes which they represent always being in the Treasury as a special deposit for their redemption, and those notes being included in the outstanding legal tender notes. Omitting these certificates of deposit, as offset by notes held on deposit for their redemption, the actual reduction of the principal of the debt was $41,552,524.

Resuming his argument, Mr. BOUTWELL said for two years, and perhaps three, the Register reported the debt of the United States according to the statements made by the Secretary. The latter statements, issued monthly, always deducted the cash on hand. The Register of the Treasury should have kept his own books, and not adopted the report of the Secretary of the Treasury. In the report for 1871 the statement of the public debt represented the principal of the debt as made up from receipts and expenditures. That for the year 1870 was made up from entirely different data, principally from loan accounts. Other items are included, however, as will be made apparent from the following analysis: The statement in the report of 1870 of the amount for that year appears as given $2,386,358,599. The data from which this is made up is as follows: Principal of the debt, $2,601,675,127, to which is added the accrued interest, $50,697,556, making the total debt, principal and interest, $2,652,282,684. From this amount there was deducted the following: Coin in the Treasury, $112,776,048; currency in the Treasury, $28,945,067; sinking fund in United States coin interest bonds, with accrued interest thereon, and other United States coin interest bonds purchased with accrued interest thereon, $124,202,968; total, $265,925,084, leaving the amount of the debt as above stated, less cash in treasury and bonds with interest thereon, $2,386,358,599. The amount of the debt in the report of 1871 for the fiscal year 1870 was $2,480,672,427, which represents the principal of the debt, after deducting the principal of the bonds purchased on the sinking fund account and exclude the item of accrued interest, as above stated, and also of the entire amount of cash in the Treasury. The statement for the fiscal year 1869 was prepared in precisely the same manner as were those detailed above. The amount stated as the debt in the report for 1870 for that year is $2,489,002,480. This statement was made up on the basis of the monthly debt statement made in July, 1869, in which the principal outstanding, including sinking fund, is given as $2,592,983, to which add accrued interest, $47,447,410; total debt, principal and interest, $2,645,170,394; deduct the amount in Treasury, coin, currency and sinking fund, $156,167,813, which leaves the amount of the debt as stated above, less cash in the Treasury and sinking fund, $2,489,002,480. The amount of the debt in the report of 1871 for the fiscal year 1870 is $2,588,452,213, which represents the principal of the debt, after deducting the principal of the sinking fund, $8,691,000, and a further sum of $580,769, representing a number of items, of accrued interest and premium on loans formerly carried to the principal account of loans, instead of accounts to which they belonged, and excluding the item of accrued interest as above stated, and also the entire amount of cash in the Treasury.

Considerable discussion followed, pending which the Senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE.

The Presidential Term.

Mr. KNOTT, from the Judiciary Committee, reported the proposed amendment to the Constitution, as follows: "No person who has held or may hereafter hold the office of President shall ever again be eligible to said office." Made a special order for Tuesday next.

Mr. FRYE, on behalf of the minority of the committee, gave notice that he would offer a substitute.

Naturalization.

Mr. ASHE (N. C.), from the same committee, reported a bill to amend the Revised Statutes in relation to naturalization. It provides that a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States may be made before a Clerk of Court, and such declarations heretofore made are declared legal and valid. He explained that the object of the bill was simply to restore the law to what it had been before the printing of the Revised Statutes, in which the word "clerk" had been accidentally omitted. The bill was passed.

Claims for Abandoned Property.

Mr. ASHE, from the same committee, reported a bill to amend section 1,069 of the Revised Statutes, relating to claims for abandoned property. It authorizes the Court of Claims to take jurisdiction of claims of all persons who were infants, married women, idiots, lunatics, insane persons, or who were beyond the seas at the time of the seizure of any abandoned or captured property; provided such claims are already on file, or shall be on file within two years.

Mr. LAWRENCE made a point of order that the bill must first be considered in Committee of the Whole.

The point was sustained by the Speaker, and the bill was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Capital Punishment.

Mr. LAWRENCE, from the same committee, reported back adversely the bill to abolish capital punishment. Laid on the table.

Unstamped Instruments.

Mr. FRYE, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill to extend the time for stamping unstamped instruments to the 1st of January, 1877. Passed.

Alabama Claims.

Also a bill to extend for three months the time for claimants before the Alabama Claims Committee to prove their claims.

Mr. MORRIL desired to offer an amendment repealing that portion of the law which restricts the right to present claims to persons who had borne true allegiance to the United States during the late rebellion.

Mr. FRYE declined to admit it.

The bill was passed.

Bills Introduced and Referred.

By Mr. RIDDLE, providing that half of the duties on imports shall be collected in lawful money.

Also declaring United States bonds to be payable according to the proper legal construction of the laws under which they were issued.

By Mr. HUNTER, to fix the legal rate of interest on National money throughout the United States at not exceeding six per cent.

By Mr. BAKER, fixing the pay of members of Congress at $3,600, and no allowances.

By Mr. ANDERSON, fixing the pay of members of Congress at $4,000, with mileage at ten cents a mile.

By Mr. HENDERSON, for the construction of the Illinois and Mississippi canal.

By Mr. WHITING, to repeal the tax on bank deposits.

By Mr. HATCHER, for the improvement of the Mississippi river between St. Louis and Cairo.

By Mr. HOUSE (Tenn.), to restore to the pension rolls the names of pensioners which were struck off for disloyalty.

By Mr. CANNON (Ills.), providing a penalty for mailing obscene matter and prohibiting its passing through the mails.

By Mr. HARTZELL, for the payment of a portion of the import duties in legal tender notes.

By Mr. GLOVER, extending the jurisdiction of United States Courts in suits against a corporation.

By Mr. BLAND, to exclude the State of Missouri from the provisions of the act of 10th of May, 1872, to promote the development of mining resources.

Also giving to the State of Missouri all lands therein selected as swamp and overflowed lands.

By Mr. FRANKLIN, for a branch mint at Kansas City.

By Mr. OLIVER, to reduce the interest bearing public debt, provide a uniform currency, limit the amount thereof, and make it equal in value to specie; also to invite a joint convention of all civilized nations for the purpose of establishing a uniform system of weights, measures and coinage throughout the civilized world.

By Mr. WILLIAMS, for the improvement of the Kenosha and Racine harbors.

By Mr. BURCHARD (Wis.), for the improvement of the harbors of Manitowac, Two Rivers and Sheboygan.

By Mr. LUTTRELL, to prevent the naturalization of Chinese and Mongolians.

Centennial Appropriation.

The House then, at 3 o'clock, went into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union (Mr. Wood in the chair) on the Centennial appropriation bill, and was addressed by Mr. HOPKINS, Chairman of the Select Committee, who argued that the national honor was involved in the success of the exhibition, and that there could be no extremity of financial distress that ought to cause an American Congress to falter in voting an appropriation to preserve the good name of the Government, as national unity was valueless without national honor.

Referring to the national advantages of the celebration, he said that one of those would be to show that Southern men were neither Dukes [illegible] Alva nor Spanish inquisitors, but were men and brethren. The spirit of 1776 would breathe its influence on the people, and under that influence all animosities and all angry memories would fade away. The passage of the pending bill by the aid of those the sincerity of whose patriotism had been unjustly questioned would conduce to the consummation so devoutly to be wished for.

Mr. WADDELL said if it were supposed that the irritating discussion of last week would have driven Southern men away from the support of this measure, he sincerely trusted that the result of the vote would only add another illustration to many already given of how utterly impossible it is for some people to understand and appreciate the spirit that animates other people. He and their associates acquitted their Northern brethren of all responsibility for that discussion. They had understood fully (for it was transparent) the motive which underlay the introduction of that subject, and attaching to that motive its exact value, they simply looked down upon and passed by the whole subject. They wished disturbers of the public peace to understand that notwithstanding the spirit exhibited, they were too good patriots and too sincere men to allow that spirit either to control them or to serve as an example for them. They wished to maintain the honor and character of the American Union, and they would do it if they were allowed. One element in the House had not been heard from in that discussion—the element of Southern soldiers in the late war, of whom he was one. They had sat in silence and taken the fire which the gentleman from Maine (Blaine) had opened on them with no other feeling than that of gratitude for having escaped from so terrible an enemy as he (Blaine) must have been during the battles of the late war. If now, when that gentleman's hair was silvering and his natural force perceptibly abating, he could develop such intensity of spirit, how must his plume have waived in the forefront of that conflict which had occurred at a time when he (Blaine) was young and strong and healthy? That element had not yet spoken. It could not be goaded into discussion. On the contrary, it had exhibited a spirit which he believed the American people would not soon forget. It had met a storm of hate and persecution as the swan meets the billows, with a breast of down. He knew some gentlemen who had been engaged in the same cause with him who had not intended to vote for this measure before that discussion, but who now intend to support it, so as to set an example of patriotism. If there were any of them who still opposed this bill he appealed to them to unite with him in doing an act which could only promote the honor and advance the interests of the country and the peace and happiness of the people.

Mr. SHEAKLEY offered an amendment that the entrance to the Centennial grounds shall be free on the 4th of July and on Thursday of each week.

Mr. WILLIS opposed the bill as unconstitutional, and denied that the faith of the Government was pledged in the matter.

Messrs. Hewitt (N. Y.) and Chittenden spoke in support of the bill. Without taking any action on the bill the committee rose.

The School Fund.

Mr. WILLIAMS (Wis.) introduced a proposed amendment to the Constitution. Referred. It is supplementary to the amendment proposed by Mr. Blaine, which prohibits the distribution or control of any school fund or school lands to or by sectarian schools, and is designed to extend the prohibition. It is in these words: "Neither shall money raised by taxation in any State be appropriated for the maintenance of any sectarian school or sectarian institution."

The House at 5 o'clock adjourned.

STATE LEGISLATURES.

MISSISSIPPI.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., January 18.—The Avalanche's Jackson (Miss.) special says In the House the act making education compulsory was made the special order for Thursday. An act abolishing free scholarships at Alcorn and Oxford Universities was indefinitely postponed.

JACKSON, January 18.—The vote for United States Senator in the Senate stood: Lamar, 22; Martin, 1. House—Lamar, 89, the Republican members voting blank. It is said that in private caucus the Republicans decided not to participate in the election of Senator, on the ground that the late elections was carried by fraud and violence.

KENTUCKY.

CINCINNATI, January 18.—In the Kentucky Legislature to-day the eleventh ballot resulted as follows: Beck, 106; Wadsworth (Republican), 15; Wm. Preston, 4; Proctor Knott, 1. Williams was withdrawn before the ballot. Beck was duly declared Senator from the 4th of March. The joint session then dissolved.

LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, January 18.—In the Senate to-day Sypher, Republican, offered a resolution to declare vacant the seat of any Senator who absents himself ten days without permission of the Senate. This resolution is intended to vacate the seat of Senator Jas. B. Eustis, elected to the United States Senate, now on his way to Washington. The resolution lies over under the rules, and will be passed to-morrow.

A bill was introduced in the Senate amending the charter of the city of New Orleans by abolishing the present form of government and reviving the old system of two Boards of Aldermen, as suggested by the Property Holders' Union.

DEFRAUDING THE REVENUE.

Verdict in the Case of Arthur Gunther, at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, January 18.—The case of Arthur Gunther, ex-United States Revenue Agent, indicted for obtaining from Francis W. Schroeder, a cigar manufacturer, one thousand dollars as a consideration for compromising a prosecution which was pending against Schroeder in 1873 for violation of the revenue law, was taken up in the United States Circuit Court to-day. The evidence showed that the case was not compromised, that the prosecution of Schroeder proceeded, and that the money received by Gunther was obtained under misrepresentation. The jury, after a brief consultation, found Gunther guilty, and the Court reserved the sentence until all cases of the kind now pending are disposed of.

There was another charge against Gunther of extorting $2,000 from the rectifying firm of Bernecker & Engelke, in 1871, as an inducement for him to obtain the release of their house, which was then under seizure for defrauding the Government, but the evidence on this charge was not received, because the indictment called him a Revenue Agent, whereas at that time he was only a Government detective. The prosecution was conducted by District Attorney Dyer and Assistant Attorney Pedduck.

Timothy Kiyby's Will.

CINCINNATI, January 18.—The will of the late Timothy Kirby was admitted to probate to-day after an examination of all the witnesses to the signature, Judge Mateson saying he regarded the probate of the will as exparte and purely formal, and parties interested could contest in the ordinary way. General Banning, Donn Piatt and Byron Kirby, three of the executors named in the will, declined to act as executors under it, and Clinton Kirby, the fourth nominee, consented. As Mr. Kirby in the will deplores a contest, it is thought probably none will be made, thus leaving the illigitimate children on the footing placed by Mr. Kirby. Several days must elapse before the full value of the estate will be known.

HENRY VARLEY, who as an evangelist was cordially received in New York about a year ago, and did a very excellent work in that city, is reported to have died in England.

WE acknowledge the compliment of a copy of the Times Almanac, of Philadelphia. It is one of the best annuals of the kind published, and particularly full of matter of interest to Pennsylvanians. A. WILSON NORRIS, private Secretary to Governor HARTRANFT, and A. K. MCCLURE, of the Philadelphia Times, are the compilers.

A DISPATCH from San Francisco announces the suspension of the Overland Monthly, a brilliant, interesting magazine, but rather too local in its subjects for extended popularity. BRET HARTE made his early reputation on this magazine. It was quite popular along the Pacific coast, but there were not enough readers there to support a publication of the character.

THE correspondence sent by Secretary FISH to Congress, opens up the exact situation relative to our interference in Cuban affairs. A note was addressed, by the State Department to the five great powers of Europe, explaining the injury and inconvenience to this country of a continuance of the war, and asking their friendly representations to the Madrid Government. These were given by four of the powers, England acting promptly, and Austria refusing to act.

THE Mexican claims commission, for the adjustment of claims between citizens and Governments of Mexico and the United States expires February 1st, and Sir EDWARD THORNTON, who has been selected as umpire, will have six months from the expiration of the commission to make his awards. The claims admitted against Mexico were $3,800,000, and those against the United States $150,000. Twelve years are allowed in which to pay, the payments to be in yearly instalments. It is believed that there will be no difficulty in reaching a final adjustment.

THE inaugural address of Governor HARTRANFT, while chaste and in good taste, was not marked by the discussion of public questions. He simply returned thanks for the honors conferred on him, and referred to his message for his views on public questions. His purpose to unselfishly devote himself to the well being of the people is very positively stated, and they are reminded that they alone can be the authors of effective reforms. The streets of Harrisburg were muddy, but otherwise all was propitious, and the inaugural ceremonies passed off very pleasantly.

OUR special dispatches from Harrisburg detail the particulars of Governor HARTRANFT's second inaugural yesterday. The balminess of the weather afforded a fine opportunity for out-of-door display, and the personal popularity of the Governor attracted a large and distinguished gathering. The Governor enters upon his second term amid most happy auspices, distinguished among the Governors as a sensible, thoughtful, yet affable man, fully equal to the duties of his high position, and a growing man, so far as personal popularity and political strength are concerned. We wish him a successful and useful term in his high office.

THE suspension of the Tredegar Iron Works, at Richmond, illustrates the fact that the business depression is wide spread and equally severe in all sections. Those works employed colored puddlers, who were paid less than are those of this city, and yet, despite the favorable location, and the long and high standing of the Tredegar works, they were compelled to succumb to the pressure upon them. We suppose there were no works so well located for supplying the demand of the Southern seaboard as those at Richmond. Unfortunately, the demand does not exist, and the South, in depressed times, falls back more completely than any other part of the country. So iron works, in Southern territory, fail.

WE HAVE watched and waited to hear from KING and SHOEMAKER, since the opening of Congress, but they have silently plodded along in the sorrowful path of duty. Their native modesty prevented them from obtruding their names on the public, and so they have quietly drawn their allowances and gone quietly on their way. But one of the Committees has been quietly inquiring into their record, and proposes to have them stand up and explain. Of course, they can do this—WILLIAM having claims in Canada, in the form of improved cattle, and SHOEMAKER being troubled with a defective memory. We will be glad to hear their open and candid explanations, however, KING having been silent by advice of counsel, and SHOEMAKER from lack of memory. Let us hope that the inhibition of counsel may be removed from KING, and that SHOEMAKER, like CAULFIELD, may improve in memory, if prodded a little.

IF THE bill introduced by Senator WEST, to compel the Union and Central Pacific Railroads to devote all their earnings on Government business to the repayment of interest advances, and also requiring those roads to repay the Government over three million dollars of advances over and above what those roads were entitled to receive on construction, should become a law, there will be some interesting suits in the United States Courts. The cases that will arise under this bill are given precedence of all other business in the Courts, and will, therefore, be promptly proceeded with. We have thought, for a long time, that those roads, which are sufficiently prosperous to deal fairly by the Government, should repay interest advances. The difficulty will be in making a law in a sense retroactive, in that it will destroy or modify a feature of the charters of those companies, which has been for some time in operation. This, of course, will be settled in the courts. The bill of Senator WEST is just in all its features, and should be fully sustained.

OUR HOME CHARITIES.

The character of our Pittsburgh industries attracts among us a population which, in prosperous times, gathers an income from labor which suffices to provide, not merely the comforts, but a fair share of the luxuries of life, and is, therefore, [illegible] and happy. At the outbreak of the panic, we were curious to know the situation of the skilled and unskilled workers of Pittsburgh, as regards preparation for possible lack of employment. We found that large numbers of these had accounts in our savings banks, ranging from a hundred, to more than a thousand dollars each, and that they were, thus, favorably situated. Others had, in the speculative era that immediately preceded the panic, bought lots, provided themselves with homes,—on which they had paid, perhaps half the entire cost. It will be remembered that owing to the foresight of our manufacturers, who, anticipating the panic, had secured advanced orders, sufficient to run their mills for nearly a year, the panic was not severely felt among our laboring population for nearly a year after it had actually broken upon us. During that time, however, those who realized the coming danger were careful to economize, pay their debts, and prepare for the inevitable curtailment of income that was sure to be made. Thus had business continued, we would not have been severely oppressed with suffering poverty in this city.

A year after the panic, however, the disagreement between manufacturers and puddlers took place, and the strike followed, continuing through long, weary months, until many who had laid by something for the rainy day were poor indeed. In addition to those above noted were others, who had not, for various reasons, laid up anything. Hence, last winter and this, we have had the poor among us. A merciful Providence has tempered the cold of winter, and suffering from the temperature of winter has not been great, nor has the expense for coal been large. Yet we have felt called upon, in common with other journals, to urge our people to charitable giving, and we are glad to say that they have nobly responded. It would be difficult to indicate the number of voluntary organizations of a charitable character, we have among us. But their reports, from time to time, show them to be numerous. Their work is spread over a large surface, and includes the needy in many of the relations of life. Our Guardians of the Poor care for those who have claims on the general public. Our Young Men's Homes does a good work for the vagrant element. The Flower Charity sends joy and sweetness into the rooms of the sick. Our charitable concerts provide means for those who are temporarily distressed. Our homes for the aged bring needed help to those who add the feebleness of age to the sorrows of poverty. And thus, under various names, and in various forms, a vast amount is distributed to the worthy poor.

We are glad to recognize this fact, as the frequent appeals to the generosity of our people might indicate, otherwise, that we are backward, and not disposed to benevolence. We venture that, while we have the poor with us, there are none in absolute distress whose condition is known. Our people are sympathetic and warmhearted in the presence of real distress, and the number and efficiency of our charities is proof of this. Aside from what may be distinctly termed charities, we have knowledge that in many instances our manufactories are kept running, as much for the benefit of workmen as of the owners. We do not mean to say that the owners suffer loss, in order that they may give employment to their workmen, but that they do not run their mills at a profit. It is well to recognize and encourage all such traits, and to have the world at large know that we are not merely iron-workers, but benevolent and kind as well.

THE PAST YEAR'S BUSINESS.

The year just closed does not present an agreeable record, unless it be to those who think that the larger the number of failures the nearer we are to the bottom. The total failures for 1875 is 7,740,—the largest for any year in the past two decades. The nearest approach to it was in 1861,—the first year of the war, when 6,993 failures occurred. The amount involved in the failures of the past several years was larger in 1873 than in 1861,—the latter being $207,210,000, and the former $228,409,000. Last year it aggregated $265,000,000. Since the close of the war the number of failures has steadily increased. In 1866, the number was 1,505; in 1867, 2,780; 1868, 2,608; 1869, 2,700; 1870, 3,518; 1871, 2,915; 1872, 4,260; 1873, 5,182; 1874, 5,800; 1875, 7,740. The average amount of liabilities was less last year than the years previous, being about $26,000 for each failure. In this State the amount involved is less than for the two preceding years. Thus in 1873, the amount of failures in this State aggregated, $31,445,000; in 1874, $34,744,000, and last year, it was only $18,247,000.

There is one feature in this showing that is encouraging and hopeful. It is that at the present the amount of capital invested in mercantile business bears a larger proportion of the business done, than at any previous period in the entire history of the country. Not only this, but it is believed to be greater than that of any other country having an equal amount of internal trade. The presence of this surplus capital has prevented greater disasters, and is the hope of our business future. It is true that the apparently large amount of capital may be partially due to lessened business and stocks that are being carried, but when compared with the condition of affairs before the war, it proves that we have largely gained in actual wealth. This is a very important fact, and goes far to sustain the views we have steadily presented as to the best method of reaching specie resumption. We have claimed that measures promotive of business activity were best calculated to accumulate capital; the great first step on the way to specie payments. This the record before us clearly shows. This large amount of capital was accumulated, when? Certainly not during the distress of the past two years,—but in the prosperous times of greenback payments, and of active business. Let us restore these, and the time is not far away when we shall recall our foreign debt, and stop the export of gold.

SPEAKER BLAINE'S RELIGIOUS FAITH.

DR. JAMES KING, one of the leading physicians of this city, and widely known in Pennsylvania as Surgeon General of the State during the late war, writes the subjoined letter which we feel sure will be read with interest, and which will necessarily be accepted as conclusive in regard to the interesting topic to which he refers.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

I observe that anonymous writers in various parts of the country are furnishing what they term "reliable information," in regard to ex-Speaker Blaine's family and early religious education. As Mr. Blaine's name is often mentioned in connection with public affairs, an authentic statement on the subject may be of general interest. I give it therefore over my own name and from long and intimate acquaintance with Mr. Blaine and with his family.

I was a member of the Faculty of Washington College when Mr. Blaine was a student there. He entered the Preparatory Department when only twelve years of age, and from that time until his graduation he was a constant attendant upon the service of the Presbyterian Church, which had and still has the exclusive control of the college. There was no Catholic church in the town. Attendance upon church service was required of the students, and their absence from it was noted, and it was said, and I believe it to be true, that Mr. Blaine never missed attending church a single Sunday during his college course. It was also true that he never was absent from a recitation during his whole course; and this boyhood punctuality must have followed him into public life, for I have often seen it stated in the papers that during his Speakership of six years he was never out of the chair for a single day. Mr. Blaine graduated in 1847, before he was eighteen years old, at the head of a large and well remembered class.

Mr. Blaine's father came from a well-known and distinguished Carlisle family of the old Colonial and Revolutionary stock—a family specially marked in all its branches for strict adherence to the Presbyterian faith. His mother, a talented, beautiful, widely beloved and truly Christian lady was from an equally prominent Catholic family, and this fact has probably given rise to all the unfounded gossip about Mr. Blaine having been a Catholic. No one knew better than his mother that he was a firm Protestant, for I very frequently conversed with her upon the matter during the last twenty-five years of her life—for the greater part of which I was her attending physician.

Mr. Blaine simply followed the traditionary faith of his father's family, and when, in his early manhood, he settled in New England he naturally attended the [illegible] Church, of which he has been a member for more than twenty years.

As a zealous supporter of Mr. Greely in 1872, and a Presbyterian, believing in perfect religious freedom for all, it may well be assumed that I do not admire or approve the tone of political discussion that renders these details in regard to Mr. Blaine necessary. But since the question is raised, it is better that the actual facts be fully set forth. All papers that have copied anonymous communications on the subject, should, in justice, copy this statement, the correctness of which I am sure no one will dispute.

Very respectfully,
JAMES KING.

Presbytery of Allegheny—Proceedings in the "Leader" Case.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

Let us now look at the fourth reason of Dr. Bittinger and his elders for their anti-Presbyterian course in regard to the editor of an infidel Sabbath-breaking paper. I make a few preliminary observations.

If Mr. Nevin had given the smallest evidence of sincere attachment to the Presbyterian Church, there would have been some apology for the Session's conduct. But the very reverse is the fact. He has published under his own name, on the title page, a volume in which, besides extolling Jesuitism as "inspired by a sublime devotion," "the Roman Catholic Church as far in advance of all other Christian denominations in missionary enterprise," and "the religion of the Jesuit as eminently a religion of love, which, he says, was the cardinal element of his faith, and Christ with him was all in all," besides all this and much more of the same sort of extravagant and ludicrous laudation of Popery, he shows his contempt of the religious system he professes, by calling it "a new faith, and John Knox the maker of Presbyterianism." And in describing the morals of early Presbyterianism in this western country, he says: "It was bounden duty (of the Presbyterian) to duplicate a crime—lawfully to perpetrate over again that which in itself was a crime, to smite for having smitten, to murder for having murdered. Such was the Presbyterian's standard of equity, &c." "To forgive absolutely, he adds, was to forget all obligation and to sin unpardonably." Under cloud of such a conviction (viz: of "the unpardonable sin of absolute forgiveness) he (the Presbyterian) stood veiled impenetrably apart, as it were, from all the warmer, kindlier, brighter influences of Heaven." "He had no feeling, his blood was very snow-broth"—"the very virtue in which he gloried was the vice that told most to his shame." Much more of the same truthful description might be quoted, mingled with varied forms of the broadest carricature and ridicule—but let this suffice. It may be proper to add, however, for the special benefit of Dr. B. of the Sewickley session, that the author of these complimentary sentiments was "the acting editor" and "the responsible editor" and held "a controlling interest" in their publication. These and similar ebullitions of spite an eminent member of a sister Presbytery has pronounced "an atrocious outrage," and a distinguished brother of a sister denomination declares that "they are venomous." They are certainly very like the inspiration of "that old serpent" of which we read in holy writ.

It is for this sort of Presbyterian and veracious author that the Sewickley session so strenuously contend; and they plead that he must be considered a worthy member of their church for a 4th reason, viz: "They decline proceeding further until the entire question of Sabbath observance and the requirements of the 4th commandment are clearly defined by the General Assembly, in regard to the cases referred to"—viz: holding stock in railroads, &c. In other words, Dr. B. and his session want the General Assembly to decide whether it is consistent with membership in the church for professing Christians to hold stock in railroads which run their cars on the Sabbath. If the Assembly decide in the affirmative, they will feel that they have gained a victory, and take to their bosoms with tenfold ardour the editor and part owner of an infidel paper which is issued and sold on the Sabbath! But as this involved the very question discussed in my last article, it may suffice to add to what was then said, that there is such a thing in morals as "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." And with all the anaconda powers of deglutition exhibited by the Sewickley Session, we doubt whether they have the smallest hope that the General Assembly will decide in their favor. Do they really imagine that the General Assembly will so far stultify themselves as to countenance, by any act of theirs, such a series of propositions as the following:

1. Our Standards are out of date, and Hopkins & Co. are the true expositors of Presbyterianism.

2. It is consistent with a profession of Presbyterianism to teach that the Sabbath is not of Divine authority, after the manner of Hopkins, Leader & Co.

3. The Fourth Commandment is abrogated.

4. Presbyterianism is "a new faith." Popery, as represented by Jesuitism, was the venerable, sublime religion of love—holy, apostolic, from which Presbyterianism was guilty of apostacy—a foul heresy!

5. "John Knox was the maker of Presbyterianism," a novelty of very bad character and attributes.

6. To teach by the agency of the weekly press these and similar admirable sentiments, is quite consistent with a creditable profession of religion in the Sewickley church.

7. The Sunday Leader and its editor, R. P. Nevin, are highly respectable representatives of true Presbyterianism, with the modern improvements. Dr. Hodge and the Allegheny Presbytery, in charging "infidel teaching" on such a pure editor as R. P. N., were guilty of "persecution," and deserve grave censure.

8. The General Assembly of 1875 greatly erred when, by a rising unanimous vote, they adopted the following:

"Resolved, That this Assembly bears its solemn and unequivocal testimony against all desecrations of the Sabbath; against all demonstrations and practices which are inconsistent with the teachings of the Word of God, as these teachings are interpreted in the standard of our Church."

Such, in brief, are the conclusions to which Dr. B. and the elders of Sewickley seem to expect the next General Assembly to arrive. "The word of God as interpreted in the standard of our Church" does not appear to suit them. That is the old, effete doctrine of the confession and catechism! But Dr. Hopkins has instructed them in more large and liberal ideas. They seem to demand "personal liberty" to believe and practice as little or much of these dry, old Puritan documents as they think true, and to reject the rest. They expect the Assembly to take back scores of deliverances made in the last and previous years, so as to allow such Sabbath-breakers and teachers of infidelity as the editor of the Sunday Leader to stand rectus in ecclesia, a creditable professor of religion. That such "great expectations" furnish any rational ground for resisting the Presbytery and persisting in keeping Nevin in the church, appears to others little short of a species of monomania.

PRESBYTER.

The Silver Wing Mining Property.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

On the Animas river, some ten miles above the town of Silverton, in Southwestern Colorado, there is a remarkable group of rich, well-defined lodes of silver ore, bearing the above name. On an area of less than three hundred acres there are not less than forty of these lodes. They run almost perpendicularly from the surface to an unknown depth, and have "pay streaks" averaging 2½ feet in thickness. The width of the fissures between the solid rocky walls range from four to thirteen feet.

Two tunnels—one 25 feet above the level of the river, the other 375 feet above—running level into the mountain across the lodes, will both cut the whole of them. The lower tunnel has only been run about 10 or 12 feet, and has cut one lode; the upper one has been driven 150 feet, and has passed through seven or eight lodes. It has just reached the Silver Wing lode, from which the whole property takes its name. This lode alone is an enormous mine, but there are many others almost equal to it.

It is the opinion of experienced men with whom I have conversed that the Silver Wing property surpasses the Comstock; for while the quantity of ore is practically unlimited, it is much richer than that of the great Nevada mine just named.

It is the wish of the proprietors to unite with capitalists in the further development of this extraordinary property, and in the erection of large and complete reduction works, so that at the earliest day practicable it may be made to produce to something like its full capacity. At the present time, when investments in manufactures are generally so unsatisfactory, such an opportunity to invest some capital in an industry which can hardly fail to pay largely, ought to attract the attention of capitalists. To produce silver, together with some gold, is as true and legitimate an industry as the production of iron, or copper, or any other thing that the world wants. It is not a game of hazard; for there is the ore in sight, not only on the surface but deep in the heart of the mountain. About ten thousand dollars have already been expended in laying these deeply hidden treasures open to sight.

GENERALITIES.

A DISPATCH from England announces the death of Henry Varley, the well-known evangelist.

A DISPATCH from Portland, Maine, says McGlinchy Bros. & Co., dry goods dealers, at Calaias, have failed. Liabilities $200,000; assets unknown.

THE German steamship Salier, from New York from Bremen, which went ashore on the Brambles, Isle of Wight, has been got off and resumed her voyage.

A DOWN-COUNTRY farmer who put in a half-acre with turnips last summer, says they didn't bring him a cent. He should try onions next time. They always bring a scent.

ALBERT WILCOX, formerly of Anderson's mercantile house at St. Louis, was arrested at Toronto, on Monday, charged with perjury and the embezzlement of $15,000.

AT the Pennsylvania Republican Association meeting at Washington, last Monday night, a resolution was offered declaring Representative Blaine their choice for the Presidency, but as the opinion of the majority it was too soon to agitate the subject. The resolution was laid on the table.

THE temperance reform movement is exciting great enthusiasm in Maine. Large meetings are everywhere held and the liquor law is strictly enforced. At Saco, a druggist for a single case of liquor selling, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail, and ordered to pay a fine and costs.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, January 19, 1876.

There was but a moderate demand for loans at the banks yesterday, and all the paper presented that was at all acceptable was readily taken up. The pressure against recuperation of business is seen in the declining value of real estate, and the low prices of rents. Yet withal it is believed that we have reached the worst, and that as we progress toward Spring, affairs will grow better. We do not see any reason for doubting this, and the evidence is seen of a corresponding opinion among others in the fact that the glass men are starting up, and the iron manufacturers keep up their full amount of productions. With the turn of the year, all will look brighter and better. Such is the outlook.

The Chicago Tribune says of the current situation in that city: The chief feature of the business of the banks last week was another sudden change in the movement of currency. About the first of the new year the flow of currency to the country was arrested and turned the other way. A similar, though not equally precipitate, change took place last week. The sudden cold weather hardened the roads and set produce in motion towards the markets. Currency began to go out towards the hog and grain districts, most of it to the former, and by the end of the week the country orders amounted to a large sum. The loan market displayed signs of greater animation. This was mainly in the direction of packers and provision men, whose operations are gradually enlarging. Mercantile paper is offered to some extent, partly to make good the deficiencies of collections, which have not been first-rate. At the beginning of the week the loan market looked dull, but towards the end was livelier; still, there was an abundance of accommodations for regular customers of the banks and good outside borrowers. The country holds a large proportion of the loanable means of the banks, but most of this class of paper does not fall due till February.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, January 18, 1876.

The course of general business continues much the same as noted from time to time for several weeks past; the demand for all the leading staples is very much restricted, as there is a very general disposition to carry no more stock than is absolutely necessary.

APPLES—The market continues unsatisfactory to sellers, as, in consequence of their rotting, holders are obliged to work off their stock to the best possible advantage—selling all the way from $1,50a3,50 per bbl, according to condition and quality.

APPLE BUTTER—65a70 per gallon.

BUTTER—The market continues largely overstocked, and very dull; holders generally are anxious to realize, hence prices are weak and in buyers' favor. Prime to choice rolls quoted at 23a25c; medium to good, 18a20c; common, 12a15c. New York market reported very full, like our own, with prime western quoted at 23c.

BEANS—The market continues dull, but unchanged; sales of prime navies at $1,25 per bushel to the trade.

CHEESE—Market dull but unchanged; prime Ohio Factory; 13¾a14c; ditto New York, 14a14½c.

CRANBERRIES—$12a13 per bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples, 10a11c per lb. for prime to choice quarters. Peaches, 12½a13c for halves.

DRESSED HOGS—8a8½c.

EGGS—The supply of fresh is still in excess of the demand, and prices are weak at 24a25c; pickled do not appear to be wanted at any price.

FLOUR—We have to report a c[illegible] quiet market, but while price[illegible] they are not quotably lower. PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, January 18, 1876.

The Crude market has reacted, and, as compared with yesterday, prices were a shade lower; shipment was quoted this P. M. at $2a2,02½, and Conduit and United certificates at $1,77¼, a decline of 3 to 5c per bbl. Refined, on the other hand, held its own; if anything, it was a shade higher; 14c delivered in Philadelphia; 13⅞ bid for early February, delivered in Baltimore.

The average shipments out of the producing regions was something over 17,000 barrels per day during the first half of January; out of this Pittsburgh received less than 4,000 bbls. Comment unnecessary.

The Barrel market continues quiet, but steady as regards prices; we continue to quote countries at $1,15a1,20, and city make at $1,25a1,30.

Progress of Packing.

The Chicago Commercial Bulletin, in the weekly review of the progress of the packing in the West, says:

With the cold weather throughout the Northwest, farmers have been enabled to forward their hogs more freely to country stations, and the arrivals at the leading packing centers have been more liberal. This has been generally anticipated by packers and operators in provisions, and the decline in prices so far has not been so heavy as would be supposed under ordinary circumstances. The quality of the hogs is excellent, and buyers of light meats experience considerable difficulty in filling their orders. The packing in the West is still considerably behind that of last year to date, though the deficiency has probably been reduced during the past week. At this time last year, the aggregate packing in the West reached 4,000,000 hogs, or nearly 80 per cent of the entire season's work. A good portion of the country points had ceased operation for the season, and the greater portion of the balance of the slaughtering was credited to the large cities. This season the packing from interior points was from two to three weeks late, and from this time forward the business transacted will tend to reduce the deficiency. Some points have not commenced operations yet, and will probably not do so; others have closed, and, in most cases, with a lighter business than last year; yet there is no doubt that there are more packers at work at interior points now than at this time last season. At this point packers have done a fair week's work—the receipts of hogs have been more liberal and the tone of the provision market more encouraging and satisfactory. A little more attention was given to the manufacture of meats, though barreled descriptions were cut to a fair extent. At Cincinnati the receipts of hogs have been liberal, and the packers in that city maintain their position—being (besides Indianapolis) about the only large city which shows an increased business over last year to date. Louisville is doing only a moderate business, as the receipts of hogs are gradually falling off, and packers closing their houses for the season. At St. Louis packers are slaughtering to a fair extent, but the aggregate business is considerably behind that of last year. Indianapolis is doing a fair business, and the product is generally going forward in first hands. At Milwaukee the packers are doing a fair business—the receipts of dressed hogs increasing. At Peoria, Quincy, Des Moines, Keokuk, Cedar Rapids, Sabula and other large interior points packers are doing a fair business, and the hogs are generally reported of excellent quality.

New York Wool Market.

The market presents quite a fair degree of activity, but particularly so in Fleece and California wools, especially the former; as regards new features but little can be said. There is not a doubt that a general closing out of supplies could be effected were holders inclined to accept of concessions. The lower qualities of fleeces also show weakness, but on the finer grades, the offerings of which are small, holders are disposed to maintain late figures. Cape wool has been more active, but other foreign qualities are quiet and nominally unchanged. Late sales of 45,000 lb. XX Ohio fleece, 48c; 10,000 lb. do., 50c; 10,000 lb. X do. at 44c; 20,000 lbs. Western Fleece at 45c, 40,000 lbs X and above Michigan fleece at 41½c, 10,000 lbs low fleece at 35a43c, 5000 lbs medium unwashed Western at 36½c, 10,000 lbs domestic noils at 30c, 20 bales of Nevada, at 27a29, 106,000 lbs Western Texas, part at 21a24c; 130 bales spring California, part at 20c for burry; 2,000 lbs heavy do at 25c, 10,000 lbs do at 25a29c, 20,000 lbs fall do at 20a23c, 76 bales do at 17½a20c, 172 bales scoured do at 58½a60c, 50 bales do at 00c, 10,000 lbs do at 59c, 30,000 lbs extra pulled at 37c, 70,000 lbs Cape at 36c, 46 bags white and 2,500 lbs black Colorado, 15,000 lbs do and gray Smyrna, and 2,500 lbs Rio Grande, on private terms.

Wheat in Dakota and Minnesota.

Within the last twenty-four hours we have conversed with one of the State officials of Dakota, and also with a prominent business man of St. Paul. These gentlemen both express the opinion that there is a vast deal more wheat in both Dakota and Minnesota than at this time last year. But in Minnesota at least the wheat is not coming in, and even the millers of Minneapolis can not get enough to run their mills to their full capacity. This, however, is thought to be only temporary. Nevertheless, both of these gentlemen above mentioned say that, although there is much more wheat in the hands of the farmers now than at this time last year, there is a general expectation of higher prices than at present. The rise of wheat in the summer "got the farmers' notions up."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Killed by the Cars.

Coroner McCallin received notification yesterday of the death of Wm. Barrett, a night track watchman on the Pennsylvania Railroad, at Bessemer Station. He was struck by a train on Monday night. The remains were taken to Brinton Station. The Coroner sent word to a Justice of the Peace at Braddocks to hold the inquest, which will be done to-day.

The New England Journal of Education.

A weekly journal, published at Boston, under the auspices of the American Institute of Instruction, and the Teachers' Associations of the six New England States, with an able advisory board, is probably one of the best educational papers in the country. A careful examination of several of its numbers satisfies us that it deserves, and would well repay, the patronage of every school director and teacher as well as of every friend of education in Pennsylvania.

German American Insurance Company.

Among the candidates for public favor and patronage, in the line of fire insurance, is the German American, of Fifth avenue, a statement of which will be found in to-day's paper. It has taken a front rank among institutions of a similar nature by reason of its liberality to policy holders, the excellent financial ability that has attended its management, the care and caution exercised in assuming risks, and the ready and generous attention given to repairing losses. Its Secretary, M. J. Patterson, Esq., is the right man in the right place.

Another Meeting of Aldermen.

The city Aldermen held another meeting last night at Smith & Lang's, on Liberty street, to receive the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting. Owing to the fact that a large number of the Aldermen were absent at Harrisburg attending the inaugural of Governor Hartranft, the turn-out was rather meagre. Mark Donley, Esq., being the only member of the committee present, no report was made, and after a short discussion similar in its nature to that of the former meeting, an adjournment was had until next Tuesday night.

Abduction of a Child.

Lower St. Clair township is much excited over the abduction, Monday afternoon, of a boy about eleven years old, adopted son of Mr. King, from the West Liberty school. A man and a woman drove up to the school house, and asking to see the boy he went out. He was immediately seized, and the couple drove away with him. The boy's parents were divorced when he was an infant, and he had been living with Mr. King ever since. It is not believed [illegible] woman in the buggy was the [illegible] the man may have been [illegible] that the King will have the cas[e] [illegible] mother, but [illegible] his father. CON[FLAGRATION]. [illegible] New Brighton, Pa.

Another very disastrous fire occured in this place yesterday about 12:30 A. M. which destroyed the following buildings—all frame. Mrs. Kelly's dwelling; Baxter's butcher shop; W. M. Boyles mattress establishment; A. Bostwick's tin shop and house furnishing goods; Ed. Walsh's trimming store and dwelling house. At present we have not ascertained the amount of insurance, but it is small, and very little was saved from the buildings destroyed, indeed some of the inmates barely escaped with their lives. Altogether it was one of the most destructive fires that has ever visited our town, and is more of a calamity coming so soon after the terrible fire of two weeks ago. The fire would have been much more destructive had it not been for the powerful force pump of Messrs. Bentley & Gerwig, of the "Pioneer Flax Mills," which fortunately was sufficiently near to be of service. It succeeded in throwing three very large streams of water and no doubt was the means of saving the large and handsome building of McDonald & McCain on the one side, and also on the other succeeded in staying the flames at Mrs. Grimes frame dwelling.

The Mechanics Fire Engine Company, of this place also rendered most efficient service and the steamer from Beaver Falls with their hooks, ladders and hose all rendered the service that was needed when they arrived. It [is] supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

WEST. PENN. HOSPITAL.

Contributors' Annual Meeting Yesterday.

Interesting Yearly Reports of the Officers and Board of Managers—Needs of the Institution—Its Over-crowded Condition—Finances and Statistics—Election of Officers.

A visit to the Dixmont Insane Asylum, on the Fort Wayne Railroad, about eight miles from the city, is a pleasure not to be soon forgotten. It is, as is well known, a department of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, an eleemosynary institution that ranks among the best and most beneficent in the land. The other department is what is familiarly known as the West. Penn. Hospital, in the Twelfth ward of this city. The annual meeting of the contributors to the institution was held yesterday afternoon, at Dixmont. The charter requires a yearly report from the Board of Managers, and it was for the purpose of submitting it, together with the reports of other officers, and transacting such additional business as needed attention, that the meeting was held. The contributors, not a numerous body by any means, and the most of them accompanied by ladies, left Allegheny city about noon and arrived at their destination in time to partake of one of the famous dinners for which these annual meetings are celebrated. After dinner they adjourned to the chapel, where the meeting was organized by calling Mr. C. W. Batchelor to the chair, and choosing Mr. Joseph Albree Secretary. To one unfamiliar with and unaccustomed to the management of this institution, it seems sort of odd to apply a word which possesses so much religious significance as "chapel" to an apartment that looks more like a concert room or theatre. It has a stage fitted with scenery and all the theatrical paraphernalia necessary for a place where dramatic representations are only periodical, for it must be understood that light comedy amusement is furnished the inmates as often as possible, and with very satisfactory and gratifying results, too. The room is devoted to purposes both religious and secular, and in the latter respect, as well as the former, the end certainly justifies the means.

THE MANAGERS' REPORT.

After the preliminary organization the annual report of the Board of Managers was read by President Harper. From it we cull the following extracts: "On the 1st of December, 1874, there were 512 patients in this department of the Institution; since that time 170 have been admitted, making the total number under treatment for ten months, 682; of these 191 have been discharged or died, and there remained in the Hospital on the 30th of September, 1875, 491. The average number under treatment during the ten months was 477; the highest number 514; and the lowest 460. Of the discharged, 64 were restored; 46 [were im]proved; 43 were unimpro[ved; and 38] died. At the time [illegible] were im[illegible] Hospital contains [illegible]; and 38 be remembered [illegible] I write, the 400, and [illegible] 501 patients. It will tha[n be seen] that it was constructed for [illegible] it now contains about 100 more [than] it was originally intended to accommodate. Four-fifths of these patients have been committed by the public authorities of the twenty-three counties of the Western Judicial District; or, in other words, the entire available capacity of the institution is now, and has been for several years, fully occupied by the indigent poor of this district. The doors of the institution have at all times been freely opened to this class, who have had the preference over private patients, although we were well aware that the latter class would have been able to pay the full cost of maintenance, and, of course, would have been more remunerative to the Institution.

THE INSANE POOR.

"Inasmuch as the Commonwealth placed in our hands most of the funds with which to erect our building for the purpose of receiving and treating the insane poor, we have regarded the obligation resting upon us to provide accommodations for that class of helpless persons, as one from which we could not well escape, so long as the Legislature annually contributed from the bounties of the State assistance toward their support. It is but strict justice to the institution that the fact should be borne in mind that "State patients" have at all times been admitted to the Hospital, notwithstanding its over-crowded condition; and that, too, when the loss of the State appropriation at the close of the last session of the Legislature might have prompted a change in the rule hitherto observed.

LOSS OF THE APPROPRIATION.

"Believing, however, that the loss of that appropriation was more the result of an accident than from any intention on the part of the Legislature to deprive the institution of its means of subsistence; and knowing that Pennsylvania, with maternal solicitude, has always taken care of her wards, and that justice would be done to all institutions that act in accordance with this sentiment, we have gone forward as indicated above, without in any respect changing our relations to the authorities having charge of the poor in this district. I need not say that the Board of Managers were placed in great embarrassment at the discovery, when the last session closed, that the bill appropriating $45,800 to the Institution, which had passed both Houses, could not be found after the most diligent search. The Governor, though annoyed at the carelessness which occasioned the loss, could do nothing to aid us."

REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

In speaking of the repairs and improvements made to the Hospital building the report says that they have been conducted quite economically, and could not have been longer delayed without injurious consequences to both the patients and the establishment. The improvements are referred to in detail but the particulars are not of sufficient general interest to warrant their reproduction here.

"In addition to the appropriation for the current fiscal year, which we should have received at the hands of the last Legislature, we ask your aid to procure from the next Legislature, not only that one, but another for the year commencing July, 1876, and terminating July, 1877, covering the sum of $44,000, viz: For salaries of officers and wages of employes, $30,000; for general improvement of grounds, $10,000; for new engine and pump for water works, $4,000. In making this application no more is asked for than is actually needed to carry on the institution with success, and the promotion of the greatest good to those entrusted to its care.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

"The continued confidence and approbation which the Board of Managers have in and for the Superintendent, Dr. J. A. Reed, is well known to you. It is to his skill, executive ability, and general and minute oversight that the Hospital owes its success. With heartfelt satisfaction I endorse the reference which the Executive Committee has made to Mrs. Dr. Reed, and her excellent influence over the female department of the institution. I take occasion to express the thanks of the managers not only to Dr. Reed, but also to his assistants, Drs. Hengst and McNeil, and to all the other officers and employes whose faithful and meritorious services justly entitle them to this acknowledgment.

"Since the Treasurer's accounts were closed for the fiscal year, he has received from William Morrison, Esq., a bond of the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company of one thousand dollars, which constitutes that gentleman a Life Manager. The Treasurer also received since the closing of his accounts, a benefaction from Frank S. Bissell, Esq., of six hundred dollars, which, added to previous contributions, makes an aggregate of one thousand dollars, and constitutes that gentleman a Life Manager. These benefactions were to aid in paying off the debt incurred for land purchases at Dixmont. It is very gratifying to be able to make these acknowledgments, as they are evidences of the deep interest which is felt by our best citizens in the institution and its management."

WEST. PENN. HOSPITAL.

On the 1st of December, 1874, there were 81 patients in this department; 441 have been since admitted, making 522 under treatment. Of these 397 were discharged cured, and 52 died; and on the 30th of September, 1875, there remained 73 under treatment. Of the whole number in the Hospital December 1st, 1874, and admitted during the ten months ending October 1st, 1875, 437 were charity patients.

The receipts of this department were enlarged by an accumulated rental, amounting to $16,000, received from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, according to agreement, since 1871; which money was all required to liquidate the sums borrowed from banks to meet the deficiencies of income, as well as various other outlays for necessities, as authorized and approved by the Executive Committee. The Hospital building is now in thorough repair and complete working order for its intended purposes. Every ward has been handsomely renovated and improved, and kept in a creditable condition. Indeed the care and comfort of the patients is manifestly attended to throughout the establishment. A new reading room, well supplied with good books, magazines and newspapers, adds to the gratification of the inmates. A valuable gift of books is among the acknowledgments. It becomes a pleasing duty on my part to present the thanks of the Managers of this institution to the Medical Staff, whose professional skill and assiduous labors so well deserve the highest praise. Let it be borne in mind that their attendance is entirely without compensation, and that so large a part of their time, which is an equivalent to money, is given to the cause of humanity."

The report was received and filed, and, on motion, the reading of the remaining reports was dispensed with.

FINANCIAL.

The report of Mr. John A. Harper, Treasurer, shows that the receipts during the year were $100,963.71. Expenditures, $98,172.74. Balance on hand, $2,790.97.

The Executive Committee report that at the close of the fiscal year they find the Hospital in debt over $7,000, and the expenses for at least three months before State aid can be obtained to be provided for. These expenses amount to about $10,500 per month.

The receipts in behalf of the Twelfth ward Hospital were $40,503.10. Expenditures, $38,831.63. Balance in treasury, $1,671.47.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The report of Dr. Joseph A. Reed, Physician and Superintendent, is quite lengthy and covers a period of ten months, ending October 1st, 1875. He says that during that [illegible] the general health of the household has been good; that a large per centage of those under treatment have been restored to mental and physical health, and that the rate of mortality has been lower than in preceding years. At no time for eighteen years has the institution been otherwise than overcrowded, and I have never enjoyed the opportunity of making every patient comfortable by giving him or her a separate room. When the next and succeding year add their quota to the present accumulation of five hundred and seven patients, the number in the Hospital will be so great as to set at defiance all efforts to promote their comfort, or to preserve their physical health, and will, in a great measure nullify all agencies intended to restore them to sanity. It is very doubtful whether the policy of admitting a number of patients larger than can be comfortably accommodated and properly treated, is wise or humane, or calculated to advance the reputation of the institution. In a pecuniary point of view it may be a success, but in all others it can only prove a decided failure.

STATISTICAL RESUME.

"Since the organization of this department of the institution in 1856, the total number of patients under treatment has been 2,981. Of these 942 have been restored, and 697 have been more or less improved in their condition. Of the whole number, 1,462 had been insane before admission for periods less than six months, and 1,519 had been insane for periods varying from six months to thirty years. Allegheny county, on account of its dense population and proximity to the institution, has been more largely represented than any other of the twenty-three counties in the district. The Department for the Insane opened in 1856 with the meagre number of twenty-three patients, and we close the year 1875, having had six hundred and eighty-two under treatment during that period. Of the number discharged during the year (ten months), 64 were restored, 46 were improved, 43 were unimproved, and 38 died. Of those admitted, 99, or more than one-half, were from twenty to forty years of age, while the remaining 71 were from ten to twenty and from forty to eighty years old. These figures imply that the more active, busy period of life, predisposes to attacks of insanity; and, that if youth and old age are attended by infirmities and diseases, to which middle life is not so liable, a greater exemption from mental diseases is enjoyed; and that after fifty years, the chances of going down into "the valley" with an unclouded intellect are greatly increased.

Married life contributed ninety-four to our numbers during the year, while single life furnished but sixty-nine; widows were represented by only five, and widowers by two. The birth-places of one hundred and five were in Pennsylvania, of fourteen in other of the United States, while twenty-three were born in Ireland, fifteen in Germany, three in England and ten in other foreign countries.

MENTAL CHARACTER.

"Of those remaining in the Hospital [Oc]tober 1st, 1875, three hundr[ed] [illegible] have been under our c[are] [H]ospital Oc[illegible] ing from one t[o] [illegible] and fifty-two hundred [illegible] are for periods varying [illegible] twenty years, and one [illegible] and thirty-nine for periods less [tha]n one year; four hundred and twenty-one are considered incurable, and seventy as curable; forty are homicidal, twenty-four are epileptic, twenty-five are suicidal, and seven are victims of fatal forms of lung disease."

AMUSEMENTS.

Among the persons to whom Dr. Reed returns thanks for musical and dramatic entertainments are J. L. Toole, V. E. Beamer, W. F. Owen, W. H. Crompton, J. A. Ellsler, Mrs. Frank Frayne, F. Muller and Miss Maud Atkinson.

The report of Drs. C. B. King, F. Le Moyne, James McCann and J. B. Murdock, of the surgical staff, and Drs. W. H. Daly, W. Snively, Wm. J. Asdale and T. C. Rhodes, of the medical staff, give in detail the operations performed, and the diseases treated during the year. Of the 441 admitted, 397 were discharged, fifty-two died, and seventy-three remains under treatment.

In addition to the above reports there were others, but the matters of most interest are given in the preceding.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

When the reading of the President's report had been finished, an election was held for officers to fill vacancies in the Board of Managers. The following gentlemen were chosen for three years. Messrs. Wm. M. Darlington, Richard Edwards, Wm. A. Herron, J. T. Kincaid, P. H. Miller, W. W. Wallace and Wm. P. Townsend. The meeting then adjourned.

The Board of Managers subsequently convened, and Mr. John Harper was by acclamation elected President of it, Messrs John Holmes and Isaac Jones Vice Presidents, and Mr. John A. Harper Secretary and Treasurer.

Mr. Jones moved that the life membership fee be increased to the sum of $3,000.

Dr. Reed stated that some time ago he was instructed to prepare new rules for the government of the Hospital and incorporate in them one permitting any person contributing $3,000 to have a free patient in the insane department, and a contributor of $1,000 a free patient in the Twelfth Ward Hospital. He said that he had not yet touched pen to paper in preparation of the rules.

On motion of Mr. Loomis the matter was referred to the Executive Committee to report at a future day.

President Harper announced the following committee for the current year:

Executive Committee, Insane Department—Messrs. Isaac Jones, R. C. Loomis, John Moorhead, Frank S. Bissell, R. Miller, Jr., P. H. Miller.

Executive Committee, City Hospital—Messrs. Joseph Albree, Isaac Jones, Wilson Miller, J. K. Moorhead, Wm. M'Creery, Alexander Nimick, Wm. P. W[e]yman, Ormsby Phillips, John H. Sho[nb]erger, Alex. Speer.

The Board then adjourned, and the contributors, after making an interesting tour through the building and inspecting all the wards, returned home on the four o'clock train.

Rev. Dr. William Speer.

We take pleasure in republishing from the Philadelphia Presbyterian of a late date, the following testimonial from the pen of the Rev. A. T. McGill, a professor in the Princeton Theological Seminary, to the reputation, ability and valuable labors of our former townsman and acquaintance, the Rev. William Speer:

The retirement of this brother from an important and conspicuous post of duty, in the prime of his working years and the vigor of his useful pen, is a change of more than ordinary significance. It is not my object to say, at present, all it signifies, to my own mind. * * * * * *

Although, in this opinion, I may differ from Dr. Speer himself, (a moot question relating to the internal policy of the Church) I must add the testimony of a long and intimate acquaintance with him personally, that his excellent judgment, in other particulars of this great service, and his faithful devotion to its arduous work, are above all praise of mine. How he could, with want of robust health, perform so much of a labor, which, twenty years ago, was distributed among three men, in the Old-school Board of Education alone, is a marvel. That one book, "God's Rule for Christian Giving," with its rich, and exhaustive, and cogent argument for a divine ordinance, which is at the root of all Christian enterprise, must be a monument for him, and a boon for us, that will make his Secretaryship an era in the history of benficence and worship.

It is a peculiar gratification to know that the author of such a work does not relinquish his pen, or withdraw his life from the public service, by resigning the toilsome labor of the Board. He proposes only a transfer of his best endeavors to another work, for which he is better fitted, and indeed pre-eminently fitted. His early choice of the missionary field in China; his complete education for such a field, combining the accomplished physician with the devoted minister of the gospel; his fond and persistent studies in this department of Christian effort; his acknowledged excellence as a writer on that grand subject, the Chinese Empire, in every thing pertaining to it as a power in the world, and a domain of special interest in history, language, religion, customs and commerce—an excellence which the late distinguished statesman, William H. Seward, after traversing the globe for himself, pronounces the very best, in its breadth, and accuracy, and fullness, for a guide—all these point him out as a man whom God has fitted, more than any other man of his generation, for precisely this one work, to which he turns himself now, the link between China and the United States.

The importance of this object, at this moment, cannot be over-estimated. Patriotism, philanthropy, religion, civilization and economy, are all most deeply interested now in the best methods of introducing to this Republic the hordes which will come, and must come, from Asia to America.

Dr. Speer needs to have his observations renewed and extended, and made more intimate, by travel and residence in China for a little while, at the beginning of his work. And it would be unfair to leave him to attempt this on his own charges, even if that were practicable for him, especially in view of the fact that his benevolent scheme is so missionary in its aspects, and yet does not propose to be at all a permanent charge on the liberality of others. For the little help required to start it fairly, there is no enterprise on earth which promises an equal return, and that quickly, of rich results, both to the Church and the country, that can be calculated on as certain, if his health and life are spared by the Master he serves. ALEXANDER T. McGILL.

We are in receipt from Charles H. Garber, of the Pittsburgh Opera House, of an enlarged photograph, representing the old Market and Court House that was taken down in 1852, and replaced by the structure that occupies the present site. We would just state that Mr. Garber is sole agent for this picture. Persons wishing to procure them will do well by calling early.

Court Brevities.

SOME of the city papers have stated that Judge Sterrett granted a rule on the School Commissioners of Wilkins township, to show cause why the schools should not be opened. Such is not the case, leave having been granted to respondents to file an answer to the application for a rule.

SUIT for $5,000 damages for the loss of three fingers was commenced in the Common Pleas Court No. 2 yesterday, by John Carr against the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railroad Company. The loss of the fingers was occasioned by a collision between a dirt train (on which plaintiff was working) and a freight train on the 7th of last July.

PETER NAGLE yesterday commenced suit in the Common Pleas Court No. 2 against the Pan Handle Railroad Company to recover $16,000 damages for the killing of his son, Jacob Nagle, at Graff, Wood & Co.'s iron mill, on November 4th. It will be remembered that the boy was attempting to cross from one portion of the mill to another, when he was knocked down and run over by a coal car that was being backed on the track between the two buildings. It is claimed no warning was given of the approach of the engine, and that it was running at the rate of fifteen or twenty miles an hour.

A BILL in equity was filed in the Common Pleas Court No. 1 yesterday by the Commissioners of Brownsville and Washington avenues, asking for a mandamus to compel Controller Snodgrass to countersign $20,000 worth of bonds for the completion of Brownsville avenue. About the 1st of August the Mayor signed $50,000 worth of bonds for the purpose indicated, on estimates made by the City Engineer. The Controller countersigned and delivered some $30,000 worth of these bonds, but now refuses to countersign the other bonds for $20,000. The bill sets forth the course of improvement the street has undergone, the approval by the Mayor of the bonds, and represents that if the thoroughfare is not completed, no assessments can be made, and the general public will have to bear the expense.

BLED TO DEATH.

A Fatal Accident or a Terrible Punishment—A Man Cuts an Artery by Breaking a Window Either Accidentally or for the Purpose of Burglary.

Following fast upon the two sensations that had already engaged attention during the week, another one came to light yesterday morning. About fifteen minutes past three o'clock A. M., George Driggs, who boards at Mr. Devinney's, No. 311 Penn avenue, heard a noise as if glass was being broken. Going to the window he heard what he thought were two or more persons in conversation, and some one saying, "Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" He aroused Mr. Wm. Schoyer, who boarded in the same house, and the two going out found in the yard of C. W. Robb, Esq., No. 313 Penn avenue, a man leaning up against the wall breathing with great difficulty and bleeding profusely. They immediately started in search of a policeman, but when they returned with Officer Snyder the man was dead. It was then discovered that a small window leading into the cellar was broken, that there was blood on the glass, and that an artery in the left arm of the deceased had been severed, causing his death.

The body was removed to the Central Station, where the body was identified as that of John Campbell, a former resident of the South Side.

Coroner McCallin was notified yesterday and held an inquest. The facts developed were that the deceased had been in a saloon on Penn avenue, until nearly three o'clock, and that when he left, considerably under the influence of liquor, he borrowed a cent to pay his fare across the Birmingham bridge saying that he intended to work the next day. Whether he wandered into the yard in an intoxicated condition, not knowing what he was doing, and fell against the window, or whether he was attempting to gain an entrance to the house, will likely never be known, though it is more charitable to consider that the former was the case.

Campbell leaves a wife and a number of children, but had not resided with them for some time, he not having [h]ad since he left home a regular place of [abo]de. He was about fifty years of age.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

Othello is said to be Mr. McCullough's finest impersonation. His enactment of that character last night was certainly surpassingly fine, and even to a more than usually critical mind susceptible of but few minor additions that would have made it more acceptable or satisfactory. In all the strongest and most striking and important features Mr. McCullough's representation was that which has the greatest effect, and makes the deepest impression. Into the mouth of Othello are put expressions that for sublimity, depth and range of thought are incomparable. The lines were read with a passion and strength of feeling so natural and vivid that one was forced to forget, even though unwillingly, that Mr. McCullough was only acting a part. He was so real, so earnest, that unconsciously his auditors followed and entered with him into the spirit of his role. His fine physique and splendid orotund voice completed the impersonation. The character of Iago, "honest Iago," as Othello calls him, is but little less important than the principal one, and at the hands of Mr. Gotthold it found an interpreter capable of doing it full and complete justice, and making apparent in the most dramatically effective way all the villainy and treachery of Iago's inhuman nature. At the close of the act preceding the last—the one which witnesses the death of Roderigo—Mr. Gotthold was summoned before the curtain. The support rendered by the leading members of the company was very good. Miss Fletcher sustained the part of Desdemona with much credit to herself. This lady is one of the most conscientious of actresses and it is very rarely that her performances are unsatisfactory. Mr. Owen's Roderigo and Mr. Waverly's Cassio were faithful personations. Mrs. Baker's Emilia was applauded more than once, though the applause would have been more worthily won had she been more careful of her elocution. Mr. Dean made a most acceptable Brabantio. The same can be said of Mr. Ellis' Duke of Venice. "Richelieu" will be produced this evening.

Mrs. Livermore's Lecture.

The audience that greeted Mrs. Livermore last evening was considerably larger than any that has been present to hear any of the regular course lectures this winter. It is doubtful, indeed if even Theodore Tilton had a larger, and certainly he had not a better a[udience]. The subject of the talent[ed] lady's discourse last even[ing] [illegible] Women" [illegible], was "Superfluous [illegible], and she handled it in that earnest, intelligent and capable manner for which she is justly famed.

She first inquired if there were superfluous women. This in the sense that there is a preponderance of women over men in point of numbers, she answered most conclusively in the affirmative. She found from the statistics of this country that in 1860 there were 20 per cent more women than men, and in 1870 there were 33 per cent more. The records of other countries show even a greater per cent. of difference, some of the European countries having as high as 35 per cent of a surplus of women. She next undertook to show why the difference existed, and attributed it to wars, to pestilence, and to drunkenness. The eargerness with which the pursuit of wealth is followed, also serve to deplete the ranks of men; the daring recklessness characteristic of them in that respect, being aptly illustrated by the statement of a close observer of humanity that if a large cannon were to be fitted up to fire men from, of whom one out of every 10,000 would come out alive and a millionaire, the gun would be in constant use, every man being confident that he was to be the lucky ten thousandth.

Since it is evident that there are more women than men, the lecturer went on to seek the reason why they are called "superfluous." She found that to all unmarried women the degrading epithet is applied. There is a tremendous pressure brought to bear by society to force women into marriage. This the girls recognize, and are on that account often driven to say yes when they should say no—to accept a man whom their reason and their inclinations would otherwise lead them to reject. And yet notwithstanding this fact, the lecturer asserted that women are not plastic things, to be molded into any form that is desired. The evidence of this is to be found in the records of the divorce courts, in the annals of crime, and in the living death that hundreds are compelled to endure. And although women are open to obloquy if not married, they are still not allowed to seek a husband, or if one dares to do it she must do it so adroitly that even the man she is seeking will be deceived into believing that it is he who is hunting her.

Logically the next question that arose was: What were to be done with these superfluous women? The speaker referred to Mr. Gregg's plan of solution, which was emigration, and pertinently inquired to where women could emigrate, or what good emigration could do when it would only give a temporary solution of the problem. She also denied Mr. Gregg's statement that superfluous women did not exist in past centuries. She insisted that ever since war and drunkenness were known, women have outnumbered men. It was on account of the preponderance of women that the Roman Catholic Church established convents and vows of celibacy. Celibacy was a part of the religion of the past. To such an extent was this carried that fully one-half of the high born women of the ages of chivalry were celibates. They were satisfied to put in their time idling over lace, making illuminated manuscripts, &c., varying the occupation with certain set religious exercises, satisfied that the only object in life was death.

But the unmarried women of to-day are not so easily satisfied. They realize that life means something more. The lecturer spoke in eulogistic terms of the many unmarried women who devote their lives to supporting and elevating others, and insisted there were hundreds of such in the land who uncomplainingly followed the path of a stern duty more deserving of honor than were Grant and Sherman; and yet no one ever hears them spoken of in any than a derisive manner.

Notwithstanding the superfluity of women, the departments that are open to them are so few that they are continually overcrowded. This, the speaker said, was the true reason why women's wages are so low. For instance, in the department of teaching the complaint is often raised that women are not adequately paid. The excessive competition is the true reason why they are not—it is not that men wish to do them wrong. Man realizes that woman is his best friend, as woman realizes that man is her best friend. The department of needle work is also overcrowded, insomuch that in Boston the lady mentioned that many women receive only thirty-three cents per day for fourteen or fifteen hours work.

The lecturer then approached the subject of the alarming and increasing prevalence of the social evil. She said the cause of this is the insufficient wages paid women. Where one woman through grossness and sensuality descends to prostitution, hundreds are driven to it by dire want. She gave it as an established fact that the number of prostitutes in a city always bears a numerical relation to the wages paid women. She related an affecting incident that came under her observation as directress of a Magdalen hospital, of the different manner in which fallen women are treated by Protestant institutions for their good, and Catholic institutions, and incidentally, although stating herself to be a firm Protestant, paid a glowing and well-deserved tribute to the Catholic women who have taken upon themselves the vows of celibacy, and devoted themselves to the work of doing good. Returning to the social evil question, the speaker said that the trouble is that there are not enough employments open to women, and earnestly advocated the establishment of schools of design and technical schools, wherein women can be educated to perform the work for which they are so peculiarly fitted She related why it is we are compelled to import all our best calicoes, and numerous other things of that nature from Europe, and stated that nearly all the work of designing there was done by women. She looked forward with great hope to the Centennial, believing that it would open the eyes of the country to the needs of the nation, and give a solution of the vexed question of what shall the superfluous women do?

The lady's lecture was embellished throughout with many fitting and often affecting illustrations. Her logic was perfect and unanswerable, her diction pure, and her delivery without a fault, while her evident earnestness and sincerity gave it additional charm.

The Charity Concert.

The Charity Concert takes place at Library Hall to-morrow evening. The sale of seats has been unusually large, and the prospects are good for a big audience. Among the performers is Miss Julia Rive, a young American pianiste, of whom the Vienna Free Press, in speaking of her debut at Leipsic, says: "Considering her extreme youth, coming from a country where she could not have the advantages of good models, and being here only a short twelve months, her individuality and conception, as evidenced in both the Beethoven and Schumann compositions, are very remarkable, if not phenomenal. The effect of her performance of the "Rhapsodie," was electrical. The unexpected example of a virtuoso, displayed by Miss Rive in rendering this perhaps best known of Liszt's piano solos, compelled enthusiastic applause, the orchestra joining with the audience. She has great power, and one of the most finished techniques of any pianiste of her age known to us. A glorious future is open to her, and should she remain where she can have good models and hear good music, she will surely become a great artiste."

Trimble's Varieties.

An exceptionally attractive programme is announced for this theater to-night. The usual Wednesday matinee will be given this afternoon.

Everybody Should be Careful to give prompt attention and rational treatment to a severe Cold—or a racking Cough—as these are commonly the chief primary symptoms of a disordered state of the Lungs, involving a tendency to develop into a settled Consumption. Persons of a delicate constitution, or those having weak or unsound Lungs, should be especially solicitous to treat the earliest symptoms of a Cold in order to head off more dangerous complications; prudently keep by you, therefore, Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, that you may administer at once a judicious curative during the first stages of any Throat or Lung disorder, for not only are special symptoms of these complaints more tractable and easily controlled then, but the general strength and tone of the system has not had time to be seriously affected, and is therefore more amenable to the recuperative and healing properties of the Expectorant. A little attention to what may seem a trifling Cold may save you from the fate of a lingering Consumptive.
